BERLIN, Aug. 11—(INS)—Taking off in secret, Germany's giant 26-passenger Condor type air liner roared over the Atlantic Ocean today, enroute to New York in an attempt to prove that 24-hour aerial service is possible between Berlin and the American metropolis.

If the flight is successfully completed, it will mark the first non-stop trans-Atlantic hop from Berlin to New York.

Not until the huge plane was half way to its goal did Reich air officials even reveal that it had started. The plane took off from Staaken Airfield at 7.35 p. m. (1.35 p. m. EDT) yesterday.

At 10 a. m. this morning (4 a. m. EDT) the plane sent a radio message to Berlin giving its position as 40.15 West, 54.00 North—roughly 500 miles northeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland. The message said the plane was flying over clouds.

Two hours earlier, the Air Ministry announced, the plane reported it was half way to New York, flying at an altitude of 6,000 feet. The weather was fine, the message said, and everything aboard the plane "okay."

In command of the plane for the flight, upon which German aviation authorities are pinning great hopes, was 35-year-old Flight Captain Alfred Henke. Others aboard the ship were Assistant Pilot Von Moran, Mechanic Dierberg and Radio Operator Kober.

The huge four-motored land plane was loaded to its fullest capacity with fuel and virtually "sneaked" out of the Staaken Airport last night. Only a few officials of the German Air Ministry and of the Luftwaffe concern were on hand to witness its departure.

When the plane took off, weather reports were favorable throughout the long course.

GERMANY WANTS TO CONTROL MARKETSConfident It Will Upset U. S. Aims in South America*IS A FRUITFUL FIELD

By Pierre J. Huns

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug. 11—(INS)—Unwilling in Brazil and ousted as Nazis by the Vargas government, the Germans look at South America nevertheless as a fruitful field for economic opportunity and are convinced that in the final analysis the A B C countries will turn their back on the United States.

Nazi Germany puts faith in the theory that the future of South America as a whole lies wholly in the hands of the A B C constellation and that Brazil alone cannot dictate policy for the entire continent. America's anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi influence is not regarded here as sufficiently powerful, even if backed by financial and commercial concessions, to draw South America as a whole under the North American umbrella.

The painstaking care with which Germany is watching the events in South America comes out clearly in a recent dispatch sent to the Hamburger Fremdenblatt by its Buenos Aires correspondent, who says:

"Considerable increase in North American propaganda activity can now be found in South America. The struggle is directed on its whole basis against undesired competitors, not with commercial means, however, but by influencing South America politically against these competitors."

"It looks as if North America intends to share the South American market with England and as if these two Anglo-Saxon powers want to define their own economic and political spheres of interest in this continent and to push out all other competitors. If they get too much into their way. This at least is the North American conception, but it is not known whether and how far it is shared by England."

"The United States so far has had the greatest success in Brazil, where Foreign Minister Dr. Osvaldo Aranha is America's confidence man. His appointment proved worthwhile. The so-called Foreigners Decree of the Brazil government, directed in the first place against Germans and Italians, and partly against Japanese schools in Sao Paulo, the ban of 'foreign parties' in Brazil, the prohibition of membership of Brazilians in foreign and even non-political cultural organizations, as well as the prohibition of foreign subsidies to schools and organizations in Brazil, does not only correspond to the native direction."

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

The following work was carried on by the Executive Secretary and Visiting Nurse of the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society during the month of July, 1938:

Two new patients taken to Chest Clinic; attended two clinics; two patients X-rayed; visited 15 new contacts; eight active cases visited and instructed as to home care; 52 contact cases visited and instructed as to home care; seven conferences with doctors, and attended five meetings.

Bucks county forged further into the forefront of the national Jersey cattle breeding picture during the past year, moving into fifth position among all counties in the United States in the total number of registered Jerseys whose ownership was transferred by sale, according to the 1937-38 annual report of The American Jersey Cattle Club, just published. With 149 transfers of Jersey certificates last year, Bucks County was exceeded by only Delaware County, N. Y.; Harris County, Texas; Windsor County, Vt., and Stanislaus County, Cal.

Bucks County also ranked fifth in the nation to the total number of new breeders of Jerseys during the year, with 30 Bucks farms previously unrecorded to the Club's attention through registration of purebred Jerseys. There were 290 new breeders of Jerseys in Pennsylvania last year.

This is the first time since 1934 that Bucks County, long an important Jersey breeding center, has placed among the first ten counties of the nation. The upturn in Jersey pure breeding interest in Pennsylvania has become sufficiently significant to revive consideration of a co-operative plan by which the national and state clubs of Jersey breeders may place a full-time extension man in the Keystone State to specialize in Jersey milk marketing and to assist the general breed educational program now supervised by the regional fieldman, H. E. Dennison.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of the chairman of the various departments and committees of the Morrisville Women's Club. They will serve for a two-year period and are as follows:

ISSUE MEDICAL REPORT AT MORRISVILLE SCHOOLSNumerous Pupils Found With Physical Defects But Few Corrections Made*TEST HEARING ALSO

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 11—Routine medical inspection of students in the public schools here reveals much the same situation as has obtained in recent years. A great many defects are revealed but only relatively few of them are followed up with corrective or remedial treatment. A summary of the results of the inspection reveals that out of 701 defects which were brought to light only 252 or 35.9 per cent were followed up with corrective treatment. The percentage of corrected cases should be much higher.

The school authorities have attempted to follow up defects more closely during the past year by sending a letter to the parents of high school pupils found to have defects. In the letter, attention was called to the defect and parents were urged to take steps to have it remedied lest continued neglect might bring about a serious condition which might handicap the future of the child. In some cases, local service organizations furnished glasses. The school authorities favor employment of a school nurse to follow up each case personally.

An additional health report this year was the testing of the hearing of all pupils with an audiometer.

The summary of the results of the medical inspection follows: Defective vision, 95; conjunctivitis, 42; defective hearing, 27; unclear teeth, 2; decayed teeth, 284; tonsils, 225; adenoids, 14; non-contagious skin disease, 4; orthopedic feet, 3; abnormal nervousness, 2; functional heart defect, 15; defective speech, 10.

"We Planned It That Way"

The Roosevelt New Dealers have "sold the American farmer down the river" with their national policy of domestic-production control, according to figures cited by Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York State, who has announced his retirement from Congress. Unbiased foreign trade experts bear him out.

Mr. Snell, who was minority leader in the House, gave figures contrasting imports of farm products in the years 1932 and 1937 as follows:

Item	Unit	1932 imports	1937 imports
Corn	Bushels	347,627	84,337,248
Wheat	Bushels	10,026,090	17,434,837
Barley, malt	Pounds	52,532,636	371,243,456
Rye	Bushels	87	205,860
Timothy	Pounds	130,099,372	432,857,738
Hay	Tons	13,858	146,149
Soybeans	Pounds	35,568,700	109,418,304
Cottonseed oil	Pounds	1,058,945	194,068,241
Butter	Pounds	1,052,598	11,119,762
Cattle	Head	97,040	494,933
Hogs	Pounds	34,155	16,555,218
Fresh pork	Pounds	1,657,500	20,876,569
Hams, bacon, etc.	Pounds	3,015,489	47,422,022
Fresh beef	Pounds	796,594	4,685,558
Canned beef	Pounds	2,793,497	88,087,133
Total meat products	Pounds	46,749,702	191,906,012
Eggs, in shell	Dozen	243,784	520,189
Dried yolks	Pounds	1,193,090	5,426,358
Frozen yolks	Pounds	422,060	1,482,862
Egg albumen	Pounds	1,275,790	2,814,073
Wool and mohair	Pounds	58,097,721	326,034,700
Hides	Pounds	59,420	2,924,157
Indigestible molasses	Gallons	188,013,286	312,035,407
		155,888,307	301,449,599

"Just stop and consider these official government figures," Mr. Snell said. "Consider how many acres of land it would have taken to have produced these imported farm products, and how much more the income of the American farmer would have been if we had raised these additional amounts at home instead of importing them from the foreign farmer. This New Deal Administration has sold the American farmer down the river."

Since Mr. Snell's statement, Secretary of State Hull has belittled the story told by the 1932-1937 import figures by pointing out that that figure for the first six months of 1938 apparently tell an entirely different story. An analysis by a foreign trade expert, not connected with the New Deal State Department, points out that in 1937 there were severe droughts in Canada, the Argentine, and several other important countries, while the United States had an above average crop.

"This large increase in exports and decrease in imports in the first half of 1938," this authority says, is due entirely to that situation. The increase in grain exports is temporary in nature and will begin to decrease as soon as the foreign crops come into the world market.

"Furthermore, speaking only of the first quarter of 1938, it is found that our exports to trade agreement countries have increased 8.2% over the same period of 1937, while to non-trade agreement countries, they have increased 28.8%. Our imports, on the other hand, have decreased by 32.8% to trade agreement countries, while to non-trade agreement countries they have decreased 42.3 per cent.

"The proponents of the trade agreement policy are not viewing present world conditions in a realistic manner. If they would first analyze the nature of our export increases, and second, analyze the foreign and domestic policies of most nations, they would realize that genuine reciprocity is not possible today."

CONTROL BOARD AGENTS ARREST MAN ON ROOFIsaiah McClain Taken Into Custody in Phila. for Operating Stills in Bucks Co.*HAD FLED FROM FARM

A Philadelphia man, Isaiah McClain, colored, 39, giving an address on Ridge avenue, was arrested yesterday by Liquor Control Board agents in connection with the operation of two 250-gallon stills in Bucks county.

McClain was found on the roof of his home, hiding behind the chimney, after agents had searched the entire house. He is said to have admitted his part in operating the stills and did not implicate anyone else. He was given a hearing before Justice of Peace Daniel Krouse, Langhorne, and held in $500 bail for court.

The State Liquor Control Board agents, discovered the two stills in a wooded section one mile north of Sellersville, in East Rockhill Township. The agents visited the place at four o'clock yesterday morning and as they entered the premises three men in an abandoned farm house fled. The fugitives jumped into an automobile and drove out the roadway at the entrance to which, two agents had been stationed. The agents fired at the fugitives but the trio did not stop.

Searching the house the agents found a piece of cardboard on which was written the name of McClain and his address. A visit was paid to the Philadelphia address and McClain was found on the roof.

McClain stated the stills had been operating about two hours when the place was raided.

Twenty-five hundred gallons of mash and 100 gallons of alcohol were confiscated.

Six Married Teachers In Johnstown Have Resigned

JOHNSTOWN, Aug. 11—Resignations from six married women teachers were in the hands of members of Johnstown school board, today, the directors expressing hope for resignation of 24 other married women on the faculty list.

The board asked two months ago that all married instructors resign, mailing each a letter declaring "your continuance is detrimental to the teaching profession." Instructors can be dismissed only for cause under the teacher tenure law, which does not list marriage.

The board accepted the six resignations and instructed Superintendent Dale McMaster to attempt to obtain resignations of the 24 still on the payroll.

SPREAD OF TAX BASIS

Washington reports have it that Secretary Morgenthau intends to have his financial experts make an intensive study this summer of the feasibility of levying heavier income taxes on the "little fellow." That does not mean, however, that the Administration has committed itself or will commit itself to the sponsorship of any change in low-bracket incomes.

Senator LaFollette has tried for several years to get Congress to "broaden the income-tax base," both by reducing personal exemptions and increasing the tax rates on small incomes. He and most treasury experts believe tax rates on large incomes, which now range up to 75 per cent on incomes of more than $5,000,000, are as high as can be expected. His proposal to increase rates on incomes up to $400,000 was defeated last April by the Senate, 44 to 33. The Senate also rejected Mr. LaFollette's proposal to reduce the personal exemption for single persons from $1,000 to $800, and for heads of families from $2,500 to $2,000.

The treasury had estimated the two changes would have increased 1938 revenue by $283,700,000. This would have barely dented the federal deficit of $4,000,000,000 estimated officially for this year, and which is certain to be several billions higher than this figure. But in a better business year—when relief costs might be lower and more "little fellows" liable for tax—the changes might help substantially in balancing the budget.

If by any chance the Administration should give itself over to the proposal for spreading the tax basis, it appears that a sugar coating will be provided. In other words, it is intimated that what is being considered is a removal of some of those hidden taxes which fool so many persons into thinking they are escaping tax levies through the maintenance of present exemptions on income taxes. Even at that, we think there would be an advantage to be gained by the change. At least its effect would probably be to make the people more tax conscious than they now are, and that in turn would build up a demand for greater economy in government operations.

Here and there the ultra-conservative may find a word of cheer. New figures from the bureau of animal husbandry shows the horse is here to stay.

People in the main come in two types: Those who unload their ratty furniture on the poor, and the others, who own summer cottages.

It isn't work that kills you, but the people who have the knack of making your emotions boil when you are trying to work.

War is horrible, yet it might prove a blessing if there is no other way to make Americans loyal to America.

Bicycle Riders Must Obey All Traffic Laws

The menace and danger had become so great that the Keystone Automobile Club drafted 10 rules for bicycle riders in response to a demand for regulated "bike" operation.

The club stresses the importance of traffic law observance by cyclists, pointing out that the rules apply with equal force to all vehicles, whether motor-driven or self propelled.

"Under present conditions," said Edward B. Watson, manager of the Bucks County division of the club, "bicycle riding is bound to be attended by serious hazards. These, however, can be minimized by strict adherence to common sense safety rules. We have compiled the following suggestions with a view to reducing the accident toll which has risen in ratio to increased use of bicycles:

"1. Obey all traffic signals, signs and rules. Observance of 'stop' signs is important, because motorists on through streets are unprepared for sudden appearance of bicycles from side streets or highways.

"2. Ride in single file. There is grave danger when groups of cyclists ride three or four abreast on heavily traveled roads.

"3. Keep out of car tracks and ruts. Numerous accidents are due to riders being thrown from bikes in front of oncoming traffic.

"4. Don't do 'stunts' or 'race' in traffic.

"5. Don't carry a 'passenger' or permit children on roller skates to hang on for a ride.

"6. Always signal intention to make right or left turns.

"7. Make repairs off the traveled portion of the roadway.

"8. Walk the bike across heavy traffic unless it is controlled by officer or traffic light.

"9. Don't 'hitch' rides on trucks or other vehicles.

"10. Always keep brakes and front and rear lights in good operating condition."

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1938
King Features Syndicate, Inc.
HOLLYWOOD—Kids have a lot of nerve. Margaret Lindsay's 18-year-old sister wants to be an actress and is turning down all the star's offers of assistance. Under the name of Jane Gilbert, she has a job back east in the play, "What a Life," and is determined to forge ahead on her own or not at all.

Margaret Lindsay

Maybe you didn't know that Margaret also has a 13-year-old sister, Mickey, and a 12-year-old brother, Jackie. The family name is Kies and Margaret's mother, Mrs. J. C. Kies, is bringing the younger children out to give them their first look at Hollywood.

You can't say a certain local scenarist is not marquee-minded. He's trying to peddle a story titled: "A Free Set of Dishes."

The Ritz Brothers go into the Chicago theater for personal appearances at a salary of $15,000 per week, which I understand is tops in the history of the house. Twentieth Century-Fox exacted only one promise—that they won't use any of the gags in their latest picture, "Straight, Place and Show."

Meanwhile, the Marxes, who blazed the way for the teams of screwball comedians, will go to M-G-M for "A Day at the Circus" and then, so Groucho tells me, will do "Of Thee I Sing."

"We are going to let Harpo play the vice president," he said. "I guess nobody can squawk then because he doesn't talk."

Could not help but sympathize with Margaret Mitchell who said, on being told that Norma Shearer would not play Scarlett:

"Do we have to go through all that again?"

The quicker David Selznick and M-G-M announce the real choice, the better. Miss Shearer, a fine actress, would have done a good job on Scarlett but is smart to dodge the role. It will be a hot potato for any actress who gets it. Bette Davis probably would draw fewer protests than any other.

Leslie Fenton, a real life counterpart of the hero in "Holiday," has told M-G-M: "Thank you for your nice salary check but I am tired of directing just now," and has sailed away on a tramp steamer for a three month's vacation. Like the heroine in "Holiday," Ann Dvorak has gone with him.

This is the second (or is it the third?) time that this pair have dropped everything and pulled out for far places. Fenton has definitely made good directing the "Crime Doesn't Pay" shorts at M-G-M and recently put on makeup again for a role in "Boy's Town."

All the fables come true in Hollywood, even the one about the bride going on a honeymoon alone. Irving Reis, Paramount writer, finished the script of "King of Chinatown" and was married to Meta Aronson, the actress. Right away, he got a rush call to come back to the studio and polish up the script, so he is in Hollywood and she honeymooned in Carmel alone until Reis could join her.

Excitement for Jane Withers. The family went to their Arrowhead cabin and discovered that someone had stolen the motor boat Jane gave to her father last Christmas. And while they were gone from their Westwood home, the canvas covering over the hen house caught fire and burned up some of Jane's pet chickens. In the hubbub her two pet deer also escaped.

Looks as if the Hollywood correspondents are made of stern stuff. R-K-O sent a busload of writers to the "Gunga Din" location at Lone Pine. Temperatures in the bus reached 115. The correspondents survived but press-agents Eddie Rubin, Nick Carter and Ruth Penny collapsed.

Merna Kennedy may be interested in Busby Berkeley but she is helping Milton Goulden campaign for lieutenant governor.

Barbara Stanwyck is back at work after a week's illness. Add to new twosomes: Priscilla Stillman with Caesar Romero at the Tropics; Roberta Gale with Ivan Goff at Maxie Rosenbloom's.

Dick Arlen will devote 10 acres of his ranch, "Breezy Top," to a grazing ground for old race horses. Have a couple of candidates if he's interested.

Merna Kennedy

THE THREE BUDGETEERS

"Oh, dear," sighed the first, "I'm so tired.

I finally found out what I wanted, but I'm worn out."

"It's lovely," sighed the second, "but I paid more than I wanted to."

"It's easy," said the third. "I've been studying the advertisements for days, and I knew where to look for what I wanted—and how much I'd have to pay."

WEIGH FRUITS FOR THE BEST RESULTS,
PRESERVING SAME

By Miss Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)
An abundance of fresh fruit in late July and August means that many Pennsylvania homemakers will be spending extra time in their kitchens preserving some of the choice fruits for use next winter.

Many people prefer jams or preserves to jellies, since they require less time in preparing and tend to retain the original shape of the fruit. Grandmother's "pound for pound" recipe forms the basis for jam and preserve standards, though some of us prefer a product which is not so sweet and use three parts by weight of sugar to one part by weight of fruit. Better results in making preserves or jams are obtained when weights are used instead of measurements, since weights of fruit vary with the kind, the way it is packed in a measure, and the shape and size of the pieces.

The smaller fruits, such as berries, usually are used for jams and the larger fruits for preserves. Select fruit that is firm-ripe and uniform in size or cut it in uniform pieces so as to cook evenly. Best results are obtained if not more than six to eight pounds of fruit are handled at one time.

Firm fruits, such as quinces, make better preserves if cooking is started in a thin sirup, since the fruit is cooked soft before the sirup becomes too heavy. Cooking such fruits in a heavy sirup tends to make them tough.

The juicy fruits may be divided into two classes; those which are tender and break in pieces during cooking as berries, and those which have firm skins as plums. Firm-skinned fruits may be cooked in a heavy sirup, since the sirup is thinned by fruit juices which are drawn out during the cooking.

Some homemakers prefer to allow tender fruits to stand overnight in sugar. While the fruit loses juice and shrinks to some extent, it becomes more firm and is less likely to cook to pieces. No water need be added for cooking, and the cooking period will be shortened since there is less liquid to be evaporated. If fruit is to be cooked without standing in the sugar, add only enough water to prevent scorching as the mixture begins to cook.

Preserves are cooked enough when covering with paraffin makes a satisfactory seal. Put the paraffin on as soon as the jars are filled to prevent molds from settling on the surfaces. When preserved jams are cool, wipe the jars clean, label, and store in a cool, dry place.

NO REWARD

When preserves are cooked enough, put in sterilized containers. Fill the jars three-quarters full of the preserved fruit and add enough sirup to fill the jars. Seal while hot. To prevent molding, the preserves may be processed after packing. Three or four minutes at boiling temperature, or 20 minutes at 180 degrees F. is enough for pint jars.

It is not necessary to process jams; the sirup is thick and the fruit is

"ALL-JAPAN" CHINESE

TOKYO — (INS) — Twenty-eight Chinese organizations in Japan sent 500 delegates to a conference in Tokyo for the formation of an All-Japan Chinese Residents' Association recently. Their first action was a resolution of allegiance to the Provisional Government of North China. Most Chinese residents in Japan, of which there are still about 10,000, declared allegiance to the Peiping regime as soon as it was formed. Later, the All-Japan Chinese group sent a deputation to the now-closed Chinese Embassy here, and demanded that the place be turned over to the new North China Government.

KNOW YOUR STATE

"Man Makes the Town"

(This is the sixth in a series of articles dealing with Urbanism—past, present and future—in Pennsylvania.)

(Prepared for The Courier by F. A. Pitkin, Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Planning Board)

It has taken a long time for man to realize that city growth and development need not be a "natural phenomenon," quite beyond man's control. Only now are most of us beginning to realize that a city is a man-made thing—that collectively we can pretty much control a city's destiny—that leaving city growth to chance is courting disaster.

This is the message brought to us in the most recent issue of "Pennsylvania Planning," in an article, "Man Makes the Town," by Russell VanNest Black, State Planning Board consultant. The article points out that personal liberty by no means needs to be sacrificed in order to achieve the city, "but that somehow there must be brought into the picture a unity of purpose and plan in respect to matters of broad community concern."

"These matters include the city structure as comprised of streets; parks and other public open spaces; school and other public building sites, and railroads and other transportation facilities. It is of further community concern that room be provided somewhere in the city for all legitimate city structures and uses, including those of business and industry. Formulation of some preconception of what the city structure should be and the exercise of such controls as may be necessary to bring about that preconceived structure are what we are coming to know as city planning. The regulation of the distribution of private structures and uses is a special branch of city planning which we call zoning."

"The machinery of city planning and zoning, as provided for under the laws of Pennsylvania and of most other states, provides a modern method by which man may consciously shape the destiny of his town. It is a method by which, under democracy, we may build cities in accordance with a unified objective almost as positively and effectively—if we only know it—as by the old-man vision and objective that went into the building of the age-old feudal towns."

"Man makes the town"—only when what is meant is that many men make the town. And it is only when the ideas and objectives of these many men can be woven into a single pattern that there results a city creditable to man's present knowledge and ingenuity and suitable to the age and aspirations in which he lives."

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

The experience of a beautiful young girl who undergoes all the terrors of a brutal prison camp rather than desert the man she loves forms the unusual plot of Paramounts new drama, "Prison Farm," which had its local opening last night at the Bristol Theatre. With a group of noted young players turning in moving performances, the film uncovers the shocking conditions existing in certain American penal institutions and shows what their effect can be on an innocent young girl who is exposed to them.

Heading the cast in a new kind of role is Shirley Ross, the vivacious blonde who was hailed so enthusiastically when she sang "Thanks for the Memory" in "Big Broadcast of 1938." She is now seen as a romantic young girl who throws up her home, her job and her friends for the love of a man who does not deserve it, and even follows him into a brutal prison camp.

GRAND

Jackie Cooper has been an actor in motion pictures for eleven of his fifteen years, but he has no desire to become a romantic star of the screen.

Young Mr. Cooper, whose latest picture, the Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan production, "White Banners," based on the Lloyd C. Douglas novel of that name, is coming Thursday and Friday to the Grand Theatre, prefers rather to become an outstanding character actor.

His explanation of his rather unusual ambition is simple.

"During my years in pictures," he says, "I've seen too many 'kid stars' grow up determined to become leading men or leading women. Unfortunately, they didn't have the looks. They were all swell actors, but they didn't have what it takes to become a romantic star. So, they're forgotten now."

FARMERS LOSE GAME PLAYED IN THE RAIN

Playing in a drizzling rain throughout most of the game the Landreth Seeds and the Nashville Elite Giants of Nashville, Tenn., members of the Negro National Professional Baseball League, managed to play eight innings last night at Landreth Ball Park, the Giants winning 6-2.

Two errors by the Farmers one in the first and one in the fifth inning, paved the way for the Giants to procure an early lead which they never relinquished.

Lodge muffed Kimbo's, in the first inning, then after Snow flied out Burbage walked and Hoskins advanced both runners when he grounded to Deboskey. Thomas' single brought them in.

In the third, Snow scratched a hit down the third base line. Burbage sacrificed. After Hoskins fanned, Deboskey gave Thomas a lift on a short throw to first. Demix hit to left center to count Snow with the visitors' third counter.

Powell who pitched for the Giants allowed but one hit during the first four innings, a single by Carey in the third. After Griggs, Deboskey and Rockhill hit safely in the fifth loading the bases and Liberatore and Barcalow walked forcing in both of the home team's runs, Powell was replaced by Ray Glover who finished the game.

Snow's hit, a sacrifice and consecutive hits by Hoskins, Thomas and Demix gave the visitors their last three runs in the seventh, a fast double play, Deboskey, Liberatore to Griggs, retiring the side.

The game was featured by three double fast plays, two by the home team and one by the visitors, Liberatore, Deboskey and Thomas starred afield.

Landreth Seeds will play the Point Breeze Club at 28th and Snyder avenue, Philadelphia, Friday evening.

Andy Pfaffenrath's Rohm and Haas team added another victory to its list last evening on Leedom's field as it downed the Superior Zinc team, 4-0. The triumph gave the chemical workers an assurance that they will at least finish in a tie for the second half crown. A win for the Oddies' tonight gives them the championship.

Eddie Jefferies returned to the hill for the Maple Beach team and pitched superbly. He allowed the zinc smelters five bingles and kept them well scattered. In no inning did the boys of Elmer Bleakney get more than one hit, although in the final inning, they had a walk and a safe blow.

Bunny Brunner, fleet-footed outfielder for the chemical workers' outfit, reached base three times during the evening on two singles and an error. Charlie Locke also had two out of three, grounding out on his second appearance at the plate.

The fielding gem of the tilt took place in the first inning when with two runners on the sacks, Jimmy Massilla leaped high into the air to snatch Stallone's bid for a hit.

The game scheduled between St. Ann's and Superior has been called off because it has no bearing on the league's standing.

Corrigan Stays in Washington

Washington, Aug. 11.—Douglas Corrigan prolonged his stay in Washington today in an effort to persuade the government that a $999 crate is safe and sane.

Corrigan wants the Bureau of Air Commerce to lift the sanctions put on his ancient jalopy three weeks ago, so that he can continue his air tour of the country.

Corrigan had breakfast with Oswald Ryan, an aeronautics authority. Later he was scheduled to have a conference with Dennis Mulligan, chief of Air Commerce, the man who grounded his ship.

"You will have to make changes in that crate," Mulligan declared. "You are going to have to take out maybe all three of those gas tanks."

Kills Wife and Self

Media, Aug. 11.—While their two sons slept in an adjoining room, Andrew Ford, 47, Delaware County real estate agent, today killed his sleeping wife, and then committed suicide, police reported. The shot-gun blast that killed their mother awakened the youths—Walter, 21, and Wesley, 18—but before they could intervene, a second report rang out. It was still echoing through the modest residence at Bartondale, about three miles south of Media when the youths entered the parents' bedroom and found: Their father lying on his back on a twin bed, the shot-gun on the floor nearby; their mother, Ethel, 43, lying on her side on the other twin bed, killed by a shot fired at close range.

Johnsons are second with 348,530 and Browns third with 253,750. Next in line are the Williamses, with 249,312; Millers, with 238,980, and Joneses, with 232,540.

Germany Wants To Control Markets

tion in the new policy of Brazil but also meets North American wishes.

"It became obvious right from the beginning that Aranha's policy is also that of North America, for he quickly suggested to the Argentine that negotiations for a Pan-American neutrality should be undertaken. A similar proposition had been suggested by the United States just before the conference of Buenos Aires in December, 1936, without success in view of the Argentine's resistance at that time.

"It is in general a favored North American policy not to act herself in questions of Pan-American policy—thus the trial balloon of 1936 of an American League of Nations was not started in Washington but in one of the Central American republics—and the latest American proposal of a League of Nations did not come from North America but from San Domingo and was supported by Columbia.

"The Argentine so far has not given in although Brazil believed that less resistance would be offered now to any Pan-American neutrality pact. The Argentine press pointed out, however, that the Argentine had no reason to change her traditional policy in such great problems—Pan-Americanism-Monroe Doctrine, American League of Nations, etc.—while Foreign Minister Cantillo during his recent visit to Chile in an interview spoke in a negative manner about the League of Nations plan of Columbia-San Domingo.

"Even less far-reaching plans, such as the suggestion for an all-American neutrality pact, which Buenos Aires regards merely as an attempt at political tutelage by the 'Big Brother in the North' have found little sympathy. Decisive for Argentine, however, will always be the question whether North America is willing to buy Argentine's political concessions through large economic concessions and open her market for Argentine products in the first place (meat) just as it is open for Brazilian products (coffee).

"It seems as if the Foreign Minister of the Argentine, Cantillo, whose visits in the capitals of the neighboring ABC countries caused a justified sensation, has a special political conception said to consist of a closer foreign political co-operation among the three ABC countries, not directed against but apparently without North America. The government of Chile is said to have been won over to a certain extent to this conception."
